

October 14, 2024

This weekly newsletter from the UH Graduate School contains important information for graduate and professional students. Each week, new items are in red.

Manuscript Writing Kickstarter: Are you working on a research article or hoping to start one soon? Whether you're at the beginning stages of your writing or looking to refine your skills, this one-hour workshop can provide you with tools and activities to support your manuscript writing process. This event is hosted by the UH Graduate School in collaboration with Dissemy. It will be held online at two different times: 12:30PM and 3:30PM. Both sessions will cover the same content.

Date: Tuesday, October 22 Location: Zoom (link provided upon registration)

Time: 12:30AM -1:30PM or 3:30PM - 4:30PM

Please register here by Friday, October 18.

Thesis & Dissertation Writing Accelerator: Previously open exclusively to doctoral students working on a dissertation and now expanded to include master's students working on a thesis, the accelerator program requires full participation and commitment. The comprehensive support provided during the four-day event which will be held from January 6-9, 2025 is tailored to help participants meet and exceed their writing goals. Hosted at the UH Writing Center (in person), the accelerator offers a focused, distraction-free environment, creating an ideal space for achieving significant writing progress. The application is open and more information can be found on the Thesis & Dissertation Writing Accelerator website. Apply Here!

3MT Competition: Here is the follow up information from last week's 3MT information session.
